

APRIL 13, 2007

 Belly Ups

I've just discovered yet another product that helps keep your pants up when you're pregnant. I wish I'd known about them sooner! Belly Ups go under your clothes, clipping to your pants and bra to make sure each stays where they should. It can also be used to keep your skirts from spinning. According to the website, even non-pregnant women are using them. They would be good for after you give birth as you lose weight. I bought a pair of jeans five sizes larger than what I originally wore, and as I lost weight, I wasn't going to buy a pair of jeans in every size in between. So I struggled to stay in the large pair as long as I could. Belly Ups would have helped so much then too! It's available in black, nude, or pink hearts.